Paper 1 Short Answer/Essay

October/November 2017

MARK SCHEME

Maximum Mark: 40

Published

This mark scheme is published as an aid to teachers and candidates, to indicate the requirements of the examination. It shows the basis on which Examiners were instructed to award marks. It does not indicate the details of the discussions that took place at an Examiners' meeting before marking began, which would have considered the acceptability of alternative answers.

Mark schemes should be read in conjunction with the question paper and the Principal Examiner Report for Teachers.

Cambridge International will not enter into discussions about these mark schemes.

Cambridge International is publishing the mark schemes for the October/November 2017 series for most Cambridge IGCSE®, Cambridge International A and AS Level components and some Cambridge O Level components.

Question	Answer	Marks
1(a)	Define the term ‘channel of distribution’. It is the chain of intermediaries a product passes through (1) from producer to consumer. (1) A definition such as this merits 2 marks. A partial definition such as ‘the way a business distributes its products’ or ‘method used by a business to get products to customers’ merits 1 mark. Sound definition (2 marks)            Partial definition – limited understanding (1 mark)            No creditable content (0 marks)	2
1(b)	Briefly explain two factors a manufacturing business might consider in deciding on an appropriate channel of distribution. Answers may include: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• cost of different distribution channels e.g. direct selling involves shipping costs and requires the manufacturer to hold inventory.</li> <li>• using intermediaries means reduced profits for the manufacturer.</li> <li>• efficiency of distribution channel; which will reach the customer the quickest and at the lowest cost to the manufacturer.</li> <li>• which channel gives the manufacturer the control they require over how the product is presented to the customer.</li> <li>• type of product – industrial products tend to be sold more directly than consumer goods, perishable direct to retailers.</li> <li>• the nature of the chosen market – if it is large and dispersed, intermediaries may well be needed.</li> <li>• level of service required or demanded by customers – so some products will not be sold via internet (e.g. bespoke products).</li> <li>• technical complexity of the product – may be direct selling, e.g. computers.</li> <li>• number of customers – if high value product and few customers, direct selling might be used (luxury yacht).</li> </ul> NOTE: Some answers refer to methods of transportation but not specific intermediaries. The question is ‘channel of distribution’ so methods of transportation only cannot gain marks. Sound explanation of two factors (3 marks)            Sound explanation of one factor or partial explanation of two factors (2 marks)            Partial example of one factor or a list of two factors (1 mark)            No creditable content (0 marks)	3

2(a)	Define the term 'job re-design'. The re-structuring / altering / changing of a job (1), usually with employee involvement and agreement, (1) to make the work / job more interesting / satisfying / challenging. (1) A definition that merits 2 marks will contain 2 of the 3 points listed above. A partial definition that merits 1 mark will contain 1 of the 3 points above. NOTE: Some answers refer to the role of an employee changing but do not refer to a 'job' The question is 'job re-design' so explicit reference to a 'job/tasks' must be made for marks to be awarded. Sound definition given (2 marks)            Partial definition given (1 mark)            No creditable content (0 marks)	2
2(b)	Briefly explain the benefits to a business of job re-design. Answers could include: Job re-design is designed to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• make the job holder feel more valued by increasing their role. This leads to maximum output from satisfied workers.</li> <li>• increase motivation of workers and hence help to retain them so reducing costs of recruitment.</li> <li>• create a right person – right job fit leading to efficient and effective workforce so increasing productivity.</li> <li>• adapt the business / job roles to suit changing economic conditions, therefore having the right staff and skills to deal with change so the business can survive/grow.</li> </ul> NOTE: Candidates that do not refer to a 'job' in question 2(a) may nevertheless give acceptable answers in question 2(b) by referring to the impact of job re-design on employees such as new skills and motivation, leading to increased productivity and should be rewarded accordingly. Sound explanation of the benefits of job re-design to a business (3 marks)            Limited explanation of the benefits of job re-design (2 marks)            Some general comment on job re-design (1 mark)            No creditable content (0 marks)	3

Question	Answer	Marks
3	Explain how a business might benefit from acting ethically. Answers may include: Acting ethically is regarded as doing the ‘right thing’ – taking business decisions against a background of certain moral principles – morally correct behaviour. In the short-term there may be a ‘cost’ involved in acting ethically – only doing things in a certain way or not doing certain things. In the long-term there could be substantial benefits: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• avoid negative publicity.</li> <li>• retain customer loyalty – retain/gain sales through high reputational perception.</li> <li>• attract ethical customers/investors.</li> <li>• attract staff/retain staff.</li> <li>• gives a competitive advantage.</li> <li>• improved brand and business awareness.</li> </ul> Effective explanation of possible benefits to a business of ethical business activities (4–5 marks)  Limited explanation of possible benefits of ethical business activities (2–3 marks)            Understanding of ethical business activity (1 mark)            No creditable content (0 marks)	5
4(a)	Define the term ‘micro-finance’. The provision of financial services for poor and low-income customers (1) who do not have access to banking services such as loans and overdrafts offered by traditional commercial banks. (1) Such a definition should be awarded 2 marks. A partial definition such as ‘the provision of financial services to poor customers’ should be awarded 1 mark. NOTE: Reference to ‘poor’ or ‘low-income’ must be made for 2 marks to be awarded. Sound definition (2 marks)            Partial definition (1 mark)            No creditable content (0 marks)	2
